

DETAILED CONTENTS

Preface	xiii
Table of Cases	xv
Table of Legislation	xxix
Glossary of Terms	xxxvi

1 Introduction: theory and history 1

1.1 Introduction 1	1.5 Administrative law and the origins of the modern state 10
1.2 Definition 1	1.6 Conclusion towards a grievance chain in administrative justice? 14
1.3 Law and context 4
1.4 Red and green light perspectives 5

2 Constitutional context 18

2.1 Introduction 18	2.5 Parliamentary sovereignty and the assertion of judicial authority 26
2.2 Parliamentary sovereignty 19	2.6 Separation of powers: nature and implications 29
2.3 The Westminster and Whitehall models 20	2.7 The rule of law 34
2.4 Individual ministerial responsibility and the role of Parliament and MPs 21	2.8 Conclusion 36

3 European Union law and administrative law 39

3.1 Introduction 39	3.3 EU law in the UK 49
3.2 EU law and national legal systems: the obligations of membership 40	3.4 Conclusion 55

4 Human rights and administrative law 58

4.1 Introduction 58	4.4 The Human Rights Act, the ECHR, and constitutional principle 66
4.2 Human rights and the common law pre-Human Rights Act 60	4.5 The EU Charter of Fundamental Rights 78
4.3 Why give effect to the ECHR? 64	4.6 Conclusion 79

5 The modern administrative state 81

- | | |
|---|--|
| 5.1 Introduction 81 | 5.7 Police authorities 111 |
| 5.2 Powers 83 | 5.8 Privatisation and regulation 112 |
| 5.3 Central government 90 | 5.9 Citizen's Charter to Customer Service Excellence 119 |
| 5.4 The National Health Service 98 | 5.10 Freedom of information 120 |
| 5.5 Non-departmental public bodies 100 | 5.11 Conclusion 122 |
| 5.6 Devolution and local government 102 | |

6 The ombudsman principle 125

- | | |
|---|--|
| 6.1 Introduction 125 | 6.7 Open government and freedom of information 138 |
| 6.2 Constitutional context 126 | 6.8 The PO's workload 139 |
| 6.3 Parliamentary Ombudsman: 'MP filter' or direct access 128 | 6.9 Investigations by the PO 141 |
| 6.4 What is maladministration? 129 | 6.10 The complaints industry: a proliferation of ombudsmen 147 |
| 6.5 Investigatory procedures and powers established under the Parliamentary Commissioner Act 1967 132 | 6.11 Citizen's Charter, Customer Service Excellence, and the quest for 'good administration' 150 |
| 6.6 Limits to the PO's jurisdiction 136 | 6.12 Conclusion 152 |

7 Dispute resolution: tribunals and inquiries 156

- | | |
|--|---|
| 7.1 Introduction 156 | 7.6 Tribunals: conclusion 168 |
| 7.2 Courts and tribunals compared 157 | 7.7 Inquiries 169 |
| 7.3 Tribunal procedure and the Human Rights Act 1998 160 | 7.8 Public inquiries for special purposes 172 |
| 7.4 The Leggatt Report and the establishment of a unified tribunal service 161 | 7.9 The Inquiries Act 2005 175 |
| 7.5 Appeals, judicial review, and the Cart case 167 | 7.10 Conclusion 176 |

8 Introduction to judicial review 178

- | | |
|--|---|
| 8.1 Introduction 178 | 8.7 Public law and private law remedies: which procedure? 194 |
| 8.2 Governmental power 180 | 8.8 Effective alternative remedies 199 |
| 8.3 The supervisory/appellate distinction 182 | 8.9 An arguable case 200 |
| 8.4 Statutory powers, statutory duties, and discretion 184 | 8.10 Standing 201 |
| 8.5 The emergence of judicial review 187 | 8.11 Time limits and delay 208 |
| 8.6 The judicial review procedure 191 | 8.12 Conclusion 210 |

9	Extending the reach of judicial review: the public–private divide and the Royal prerogative	213
9.1	Introduction 213
9.2	Identifying public law decisions: the public–private divide 214
9.3	Judicial review and the prerogative powers 223
9.4	Conclusion 233
10	Limiting judicial review: ouster clauses and public interest immunity	236
10.1	Introduction 236
10.2	Ouster and time limit clauses 237
10.3	Subjective words 247
10.4	Error of law on the face of the record 249
10.5	Implied limits on judicial review: (II) public interest immunity 251
11	Illegality I	267
11.1	Introduction 267
11.2	The importance of statutory interpretation 268
11.3	Simple ultra vires 269
11.4	‘Improper’ purpose 270
11.5	Relevant and irrelevant considerations 276
11.6	Bad faith 286
11.7	Conclusion 286
12	Illegality II	288
12.1	Introduction 288
12.2	Fettering discretion: deciding by reference to a policy 289
12.3	Estoppel and the fettering of discretion 296
12.4	Fettering discretion by contract 299
12.5	Fettering discretion by wrongful delegation 301
12.6	Errors of law and errors of fact 304
12.7	Delegated (or subordinate) legislation 308
12.8	Conclusion 313
13	Unreasonableness, irrationality, and proportionality	315
13.1	Introduction 315
13.2	Wednesbury unreasonableness and general unreasonableness distinguished 316
13.3	History of unreasonableness 319
13.4	Irrationality: Lord Diplock’s reformulation in GCHQ 323
13.5	Proportionality 325
13.6	The Human Rights Act and proportionality 329
13.7	Wednesbury and proportionality outside the Human Rights Act 339
13.8	Conclusion 340

14 Equality	343
14.1 Introduction 343	14.4 Equality and the ECHR 347
14.2 Equality and the common law 344	14.5 Equality and statute law 350
14.3 Equality and EU law 346	14.6 Conclusion 351
15 Legitimate expectations	353
15.1 Introduction 353	15.4 Coughlan and the protection of substantive legitimate expectations 363
15.2 When are legitimate expectations created? 355	15.5 Unlawfully created legitimate expectations 368
15.3 The development of the doctrine 357	15.6 Conclusion 371
16 Procedural impropriety I: statutory requirements	373
16.1 Introduction 373	16.4 Conclusion—the common sense approach? 382
16.2 Procedural ultra vires 374
16.3 Statutory requirements: indications from the case law 376
17 Procedural impropriety II: common law rules	384
17.1 Introduction 384	17.4 The rule against bias 415
17.2 History 386	17.5 Conclusion 428
17.3 The right to a hearing 400
18 Remedies in judicial review	430
18.1 Introduction 430	18.4 Remedies and the European Communities Act 1972 441
18.2 The origins and discretionary nature of the remedies 431	18.5 Remedies and the Human Rights Act 1998 442
18.3 The remedies 433	18.6 Conclusion 445
19 Contracting and public bodies	447
19.1 Introduction 447	19.5 Void contracts 453
19.2 Government power to contract 448	19.6 Restitution and public authorities 455
19.3 Fettering discretion 451	19.7 Conclusion 456
19.4 Judicial accountability 453

20 Public authority liability in tort	458
20.1 Introduction 458
20.2 Public authority liability: the principal torts 460
20.3 Negligence, public functions, and limiting the common law duty of care 467
20.4 A change in direction 472
20.5 The Human Rights Act and liability in tort 476
20.6 Conclusion 479
21 Conclusion: administrative law facing the future	481
21.1 Introduction: is there now a system of administrative law? 481
21.2 United Kingdom Supreme Court 483
21.3 Freedom of information 484
21.4 The courts, human rights, and the reformed constitution 485
21.5 A balanced constitution? 487
21.6 Conclusion 490
Index	493