Contents

Acknowledgments viii

Preface x

Tables xii

Table of Cases xii
Table of Cases (UK) xii
Table of Cases (US) xii
Table of Legislation xii
Table of Directives (EU) xii
Table of Statutes and Regulations (Germany) xii
Table of Statutes and Regulations (India) xiii
Table of Statutes and Regulations (Ireland) xiii
Table of Statutes and Regulations (UK) xiii
Table of Statutes and Regulations (US) xiv
Constituency Statutes (State Level Legislation US) xv
Table of Statutory Instruments xv
(United Kingdom) xv
(Ireland) xvi
Codes and Principles xvi

List of Abbreviations xviii

Introduction 1
I Who is in charge? 1
II Structure of this book 3

1 The Evolution of the CSR Concept: From Sharing to Caring 6
1.1 Introduction and overview 6
1.2 Overview of CSR 6
1.3 Characterising CSR 10
1.3.1 'Layers' of CSR 10
1.3.1.1 CSR in the US today 12
1.3.1.2 CSR in the UK today 14
1.3.2 The US 16
1.3.3 The UK 21
1.4 Conclusion 23

2 The Problem With CSR for the Sake of CSR: A Study in Development 25

2.1 Introduction and overview 25
2.2 The context 26
2.3 Overview of the theory 30
2.4 What then are the main features of dependence? 34
2.5 Frank's dependency 36
2.6 Criticisms of dependency 39
2.7 Modified dependency – dependency 2:0 43
2.7.1 Original dependency and MNCs 46
2.7.2 Answering the criticisms and protecting the main features of dependency 48
2.8 Conclusion 50

3 The Rise of Governance and the Fall of Government: Capitalism 2.0 51

3.1 Introduction and overview 51
3.2 Globalisation 51
3.3 Has globalisation eliminated the inequalities of dependence? 59
3.4 The transnational capitalist class 61
3.5 The role of the dependent nation state in the TCC 68
3.6 Conclusion 73

4 The Changing of the Guard: Government to Gatekeeper 75

4.1 Introduction 75
4.2 Stakeholders 76
4.2.1 External stakeholders 78
4.2.2 Government as an external stakeholder 78
4.3 What is the relationship of between stakeholder theories and CSR? 80
4.4 Role of government within CSR 84
4.4.1 CSR and dependency 84
4.5 Role of government as a gatekeeper of society 87
4.5.1 Balancing responsibilities 89
4.6 Situating the government as external stakeholder/ gatekeeper within the TCC and CSR framework 92
4.7 Conclusion 98

5 Regulating CSR: A Precursor to 'Complete' Globalisation 99

5.1 Introduction 99
5.2 CSR at an international level 100

5.2.1 OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises 100
5.2.2 United Nations Principles on Business and Human Rights (the 'Ruggie' Principles) 104
5.3 CSR on a European level 106
5.4 The domestic approach to CSR: from a small open economy perspective 110
5.5 A Mandatory EU CSR policy – a solution for small open economies within the EU? 120
5.6 Conclusion 123

Conclusions 125

Bibliography 129

Index 152