

Contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Fulfilling Man's Needs As One of the Main Reasons Why Societies Are There	1
1.2	Further Scope and Methodology of This Book	4
	References	6
2	Main Legal Building Stones of the Capitalist Socio-Economic Order	9
2.1	Money	9
2.1.1	Money As a Societal Construct	9
2.1.2	The Origin and Later Development of the Presently Prevailing System of Money Creation in a Nutshell	13
2.1.3	A First Big Lesson: Money Is Credit/Credit Is Money, and Why This Is Troublesome	21
2.1.4	A Second Big Lesson: Banks('Interests) Prevail	28
2.2	The Company Law Form (or How Also the Functioning of Enterprises Is Completely Determined by the Principles of Capitalism)	32
2.2.1	The Breakthrough of the Company Form As a Method of Organizing Enterprises	32
2.2.2	The Further Behavioral Influence of the Principles of Capitalism on Enterprises	33
2.3	The Capitalist Model of State Financing	54
2.3.1	Why According to Liberal and Neoliberal Doctrine the Rich Should Be Exempt from Paying Taxes	54
2.3.2	Some Further Consequences of the Liberal and Neoliberal Taxation Approach	56
2.3.3	Neoliberal Methods of State Financing As an Endless Source of More Wealth for the Rich	57
2.3.4	Conclusion	59

2.4	General Conclusion	60
	References	60
3	Neoliberalism	65
3.1	Why Neoliberalism Wants the Welfare State Model Dismantled	65
3.1.1	Neoliberalism: The Ideology That Has Proclaimed Egoism, Selfishness and Greed to Be the Basic Socio-Economic Values	65
3.1.2	The Rise and Decline of the Welfare State Model	66
3.1.3	Summary	69
3.2	The Neoliberal Wet Dream of Dismantling the Welfare State Model Made True in Practice	69
3.2.1	General	69
3.2.2	The Implementation of the Neoliberal Agenda in Some Territories in the Eighties of the Twentieth Century	70
3.2.3	Implementing the Neoliberal Agenda in Some Territories in Present Days	72
3.3	Conclusion	75
	References	76
4	Some Major Unanswered Challenges of Our Times	79
4.1	General	79
4.2	The Unsolvable Debt Problem Revisited	80
4.2.1	Introduction	80
4.2.2	Some Data on the Amounts of Debt	81
4.2.3	Conclusion	95
4.3	Unjust Taxation	96
4.3.1	The General Purposes of Taxation and Semi-Taxation Briefly Readdressed	96
4.3.2	Neoliberal Fiscal Policy: Taxing the Lower and Middle Classes While Leaving The Rich (Relatively) Unburdened	98
4.3.3	Conclusion	101
4.4	Capitalism and the Environment	102
4.4.1	Introduction	102
4.4.2	How the Prevailing Capitalist Monetary System Entails Economic Growth	103
4.4.3	How the Economic Model of Ever More Economic Growth Was Bound to Result in Environmental Problems	106
4.4.4	Conclusion	107
4.5	The Increasing Gap Between Rich and Poor	107
4.5.1	General	107
4.5.2	Some Disturbing Data	110

4.6	Some Further Troublesome Consequences of Dismantling the Welfare State Model in the UK and the USA	124
4.6.1	General	124
4.6.2	Some Data on Poverty and Wealth Inequality in the UK	124
4.6.3	Some Data on Poverty and Wealth Inequality in the USA	129
4.6.4	The Increasing Need for Food Banks in Both the UK and in the USA	130
4.7	General Conclusion	132
	References	133
5	Some Thoughts on a Monetary Way Out	137
5.1	General	137
5.2	The Rational for a New, International Monetary Order	138
5.2.1	On the Invalidity of the Argument That There Is No Alternative for the Prevailing Monetary System(s) Perceivable	138
5.2.2	Basic Outline for of an Alternative Monetary System	139
5.3	International Character of the Here Proposed New Monetary Order	140
5.4	The Underlying Values of the Here Proposed New, International Monetary Order	142
5.4.1	General	142
5.4.2	Possible Outline for Creating a More Just Socio-Economic System	143
5.4.3	Escaping the Dictates of the Doctrine of (Neo)liberalism	144
5.4.4	Taking into Account the True Nature of Money	145
5.5	Institutional Aspects of the New, International Monetary Order	147
5.5.1	A Two Tiered Institutional Framework	147
5.5.2	Governance Aspects	148
5.6	Towards a New Five Pillared System of Money Creation	150
5.6.1	General Scope of Section 5.6: A “Five Pillar”-Approach	150
5.6.2	The Five Pillars Explained in More Detail	150
5.7	Concluding Remarks Regarding the Proposed New Monetary System	176
	References	177
6	Introducing a Universal “Care State” Model	181
6.1	Introduction	181
6.2	Towards a New “Care State Model”	186
6.2.1	How the New Monetary Order Proposed in Chapter 5 of This Book Could Contribute to Shape a Universal Care State Model	186

6.2.2	Content of the Here Proposed New Universal Care State Model	187
6.2.3	Some Further Thoughts on Organizing the Care State Model	200
6.3	The Call for a New Fiscal Policy	202
6.3.1	Towards a Simplified Model of Government Financing	202
6.3.2	The Baselines for a More Just Fiscal System	203
6.3.3	Allocation of the Collected Taxes	214
	References	215
7	A New Focus on Man	219
7.1	Introduction	219
7.1.1	The Sad Fate of Man Within the Neoliberal World Order	219
7.1.2	How the Proposals Made in the Previous Chapters Could Help Improving Man's Living Situation	221
7.2	The Need for a New Vision on Labour	225
7.2.1	Problem	225
7.2.2	Towards a Career Path Taking into Account Man's Phases of Life	227
7.3	Belonging to Societies of Care for One Another and for the Earth Man Inhabits	230
7.3.1	Theoretical Reflections	230
7.3.2	In Practice	232
	References	236
8	General Conclusion	237
	References	239