

Table of Contents

Foreword	v
Martti Koskenniemi
List of Contributors	xiii
1. Editors' Introduction	1
Immi Tallgren and Thomas Skouteris
2. Unprecedents	12
Gerry Simpson
3. Founding Moments and Founding Fathers: Shaping Publics through the Sentimentalization of History Narratives	30
Kamari Maxine Clarke
4. From the Sentimental Story of the State to the Verbrecherstaat , Or, the Rise of the Atrocity Paradigm	54
Lawrence Douglas
5. International Criminal Justice History Writing as Anachronism: The Past that Did Not Lead to the Present	72
Frédéric Mégret
6. Redeeming Rape: Berlin 1945 and the Making of Modern International Criminal Law	90
Heidi Matthews
7. 'Voglio una donna!': On Rewriting the History of International Criminal Justice with the Help of Women Who Perpetrated International Crimes	110
Immi Tallgren
8. Writing More Inclusive Histories of International Criminal Law: Lessons from the Slave Trade and Slavery	130
Emily Haslam
9. The 'Africa Blue Books' at Versailles: The First World War, Narrative, and Unthinkable Histories of International Criminal Law	145
Christopher Gevers
10. Crimes Against Humanity: Racialized Subjects and Deracialized Histories	167
Vasuki Nesiah
11. Nazi Atrocities, International Criminal Law, and Soviet War Crimes Trials: The Soviet Union and the Global Moment of Post-Second World War Justice	189
Franziska Exeler

12. Theodor Meron and the Humanization of International Law Aleksi Peltonen	220
13. Histories of the Jewish ‘Collaborator’: Exile, Not Guilt Mark Drumbl	237
Index	253