

CONTENTS

Preface	page	xv
Table of Cases		xix
Table of Treaties, Instruments and Official Documents		xxviii
List of Abbreviations		xxxix
PART I	Foundations	1
1	Introduction	3
1.1	Distributive Justice in International Trade	3
1.2	Why Trade Law Needs a Theory of Justice . . .	6
1.3	. . . and Why It Doesn't Have One	7
1.4	Overview	9
1.5	On the Merits and Challenges of Interdisciplinarity	16
1.6	Equality in Global Commerce	19
1.6.1	Two Classes of Measure	19
1.6.2	Identifying Measures	22
1.6.3	Equality in Global Commerce	25
2	Why World Trade Law Needs a Theory of Justice	28
2.1	The Problem of Distributive Justice in International Trade Regulation	28
2.2	Distributive Justice and Political Morality	30

2.3	On the Scope of Justice: Domestic vs. International vs. Global	32
2.4	What Trade Law Theory Is (and Is Not) About	34
2.5	Existing Approaches to Distributive Justice in Trade Regulation	37
2.5.1	Equality and a Global Difference Principle	38
2.5.2	Social Liberalism and the Law of Peoples	40
2.5.3	Human Rights and Realization-Focused Comparison	42
2.5.4	Internalism and Interpretivism	44
2.5.5	Moral Positivism	46
2.5.6	Economic Efficiency	47
2.6	Structure and Methodology	49
2.6.1	Normative Theory	49
2.6.2	Explanation, Interpretation, Evaluation	55
2.6.3	Critical Implications	63
2.7	Conclusion	66
PART II Justice		67
3	Towards a Political Theory of International Economic Law	69
3.1	Introduction	69
3.2	Coercion, Nonvoluntary Institutions, and Distributive Justice	72
3.2.1	Can Coercion Distinguish Domestic from International?	75
3.2.2	Why Does Coercion Matter?	76

3.3	Coercion and the Plurality of Global Institutions	80
3.4	Direct Coercion, Indirect Coercion, and Self-Determination	86
3.5	Exclusive Coercion, Inclusive Coercion, and the Fruits of Social Cooperation	96
3.6	External Coercion and the Interpersonal Test	103
3.7	From International Coercion to Equality in Global Commerce	106
3.8	Conclusion	114
4	Sovereignty, Nationality, and the Limits of Statism	116
4.1	Introduction	116
4.2	Sovereignty, Security, and Global Justice	119
4.2.1	Sovereignty and Security	120
4.2.2	Sovereignty and Coordination	122
4.3	Sovereignty and the Basic Structure	123
4.3.1	Why the Basic Structure?	124
4.3.2	The Impact Objection	127
4.3.3	The Participation Objection	129
4.3.4	The Agency Objection	131
4.4	National Priority and Global Justice	134
4.5	Further Statist Objections	141
4.5.1	The Metric Problem	142
4.5.2	The Dynamic Problem	146
4.6	Conclusion	149

5	Self-Determination and External Trade Measures	151
5.1	Introduction	151
5.2	Self-Determination in International Law	155
5.3	Intrinsic Arguments	158
5.4	Expressive Arguments	162
5.5	Instrumental Arguments	166
5.6	Integrating Self-Determination Arguments	171
5.7	Conclusion	174
	PART III Law	175
6	Border Measures, Discrimination, and ETMs	177
6.1	Introduction	177
6.2	What Are Trade Agreements For? Competing Stories	178
6.2.1	Terms of Trade: Solving Prisoners' Dilemmas	179
6.2.2	Protectionism: Restraining Irrationality	182
6.2.3	EGC: Expressing Justice	185
6.3	The Problem of Discrimination	188
6.3.1	The Ambiguity of Discrimination	190
6.3.2	Three Approaches to Likeness	191
6.3.3	The Contradictions of PT and TTT	194
6.3.4	Reconstructing Nondiscrimination through EGC	199
6.3.5	Discrimination and Technical Regulations	202
6.4	Conclusion	203

7	Justifying ETMs: Development Provisions and General Exceptions	205
7.1	Introduction	205
7.2	Development Provisions	206
7.2.1	Explaining the Development Provisions through PT and TTT	209
7.2.2	EGC and the Development Provisions	213
7.2.3	EGC and the AB's Approach to the Development Provisions	219
7.3	General Exceptions	223
7.3.1	Explaining Article XX through PT and TTT	225
7.3.2	EGC and the General Exceptions	227
7.3.3	EGC in the Article XX Jurisprudence	232
7.4	Conclusion	240
8	Trade Remedies and Fairness in International Trade Regulation	241
8.1	Introduction	241
8.2	Economic Approaches to Trade Remedies	244
8.2.1	Subsidies	244
8.2.2	Safeguards	247
8.2.3	Dumping	250
8.3	Fairness, EGC, and Trade Remedies	253
8.3.1	Competitive Fairness	253
8.3.2	Subsidies	255

8.3.3	Safeguards	263
8.3.4	Dumping	268
8.4	EGC and Interpretation of Trade Remedies Rules	273
8.4.1	Subsidies and Benefit	273
8.4.2	Safeguards, Foreseeability, and Causation	277
8.4.3	Dumping and Zeroing	280
8.5	Conclusion	283
9	Domestic Regulation, Self-Determination, and DEMs	284
9.1	Introduction	284
9.2	Explaining the Domestic Regulation Agreements	287
9.2.1	Domestic Approaches	287
9.2.2	Global Approaches	292
9.2.3	Equality in Global Commerce	294
9.2.4	Adjudicating the Approaches	298
9.3	TBT and Legitimate Objectives	298
9.4	SPS and the Authority of Science	305
9.5	International Standards	314
9.6	Conclusion	319
PART IV Progress		321
10	Conclusion: Where to from Here?	323
10.1	Where Do We Go from Here? From Deadlock to Variable Geometry	323
10.2	Where Do I Go from Here? Extending the Argument	332

CONTENTS

xiii

10.3 Where Do You Go from Here? On the Value of Interdisciplinarity 334

Bibliography 336

Index 377