

CONTENTS

1	Imagination and Reality	1
1.1	The Rift and the Alternative	3
1.2	The Mosaic and Its Elements	6
1.2.1	An Alternative to R2P's Apolitical Logic	6
1.2.2	Identifying the ICC's Primary Purpose	9
1.2.3	A Distinctive Vision of World Order	11
1.2.4	The Meaning and the Role of Evil	14
1.3	Chapter Outline	16
1.4	Conclusion	19
	Bibliography	24
2	Evil as a Crime Against Humanity	33
2.1	Approaching Evil	35
2.2	Defending Evil Against 'Evil-Sceptics'	40
2.2.1	A Fundamental Mindset Inclined to Burn Witches	41
2.2.2	Abusing Evil: Dichotomising the World	42
2.2.3	Crusading Moralism	44
2.2.4	Everything—including Evil—is Relative (and Only That Is Absolute)	47
2.2.5	The Concept of Evil: A Black Hole	49
2.2.6	Abandoning Evil?	51

2.3	Evil as a Crime Against Humanity	52
2.3.1	Hannah Arendt's Account of Evil	53
2.3.2	Mass Atrocities as—And Through the Lens of—Evil	61
2.4	Conclusion	70
	Bibliography	75
3	A Responsibility to Protect Humanity from Evil	81
3.1	The Responsibility to Protect and Evil	83
3.1.1	Born Out of the Experience of Evil	84
3.1.2	Designed to Combat Evil (?)	92
3.2	R2P as an Evil: Sceptics and Critics	101
3.2.1	The Bible, the Sword and the R2P: R2P as (Western) Neo-imperialism	102
3.2.2	Intervention as a Threat to International Order, Stability and Peace	103
3.2.3	Sound and Fury Signifying Nothing: R2P the Legal Void	105
3.2.4	The Anti-political Theory of R2P: The Need to Re-politicise R2P	107
3.3	R2P Against Evil: A Responsibility to Protect Humanity from Evil	108
3.4	Conclusion	117
	Bibliography	121
4	The International Criminal Court as a Bulwark Against Evil	131
4.1	A Court of Dreams?	133
4.2	Swords and Scales	139
4.3	Combatting Evil as the ICC's Primary Purpose	148
4.3.1	Combatting Evil—The ICC's raison d'être?	149
4.3.2	Prosecuting/Punishing Evildoers—Combatting Evil?	153
4.4	The Need for a Phronetic Prosecutor	163
4.5	Conclusion	170
	Bibliography	173

5	Evil and World Order: Towards an Agonistic Global Constitutionalism	187
5.1	Between Freedom and Order	190
5.1.1	The Liberal Constitutional Vision of (Anti-)Politics—Liberty, Democracy and Order	191
5.1.2	The Agonistic Vision of Politics—Freedom, (Radical) Democracy and (Limited) Order	194
5.1.3	Order and Freedom in a Pluriverse—Constitutionalisation in the Global Realm	198
5.2	Visions of Freedom and (World) Order	201
5.2.1	A Constitution for World Society—Cosmopolitan Law, Legitimacy and (Deliberative) Democracy	202
5.2.2	Tully’s Constitutional Agonism	206
5.2.3	Mouffe’s Agonistic Pluralism—Endorsing Agonism, Ignoring Enmity	209
5.2.4	Synopsis: Towards an Agonistic Vision of World Order	213
5.3	Agonistic Global Constitutionalism	217
5.4	Conclusion	227
	Bibliography	232
6	Tragedy and Hope	239
	Bibliography	249
	Index	251