

Contents

List of illustrations	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Notes on contributors	ix
Introduction: contesting in the name of religion?	1
CLAUDE PROESCHEL AND DAVID KOUSSENS
PART I
Theoretical issues	13
1 Protecting freedom of conscience in a constitutional state	15
PIERLUIGI CHIASSONI
2 Contesting philosophical secularism: The case for pluralist secularism	43
RAVZA ALTUNTAS-ÇAKIR
3 Are there consequentialist grounds for exempting religious health care professionals from medical assistance in dying?	61
DANIEL WEINSTOCK
PART II
Spaces of contestation	77
4 Freedom of conscience in private companies: An economic or a political problem?	79
VINCENT VALENTIN

vi	Contents
5	Should conscience clauses in Belgian health care be institutionalised?	90
	XAVIER DELGRANGE AND HÉLÈNE LEROUXEL
6	Advocating in ecology through meditation: A case study on the Swiss “inner transition” network	111
	CHRISTOPHE MONNOT AND ALEXANDRE GRANDJEAN
7	“We don’t wanna be outlaws”: Hasidic Jews and their allies contest municipal bylaws in a Montreal neighbourhood	127
	VALENTINA GADDI
	PART III
	The rhetoric of contestation	143
8	Secular and religious reasons for conscientious objection: The case of medical assistance in dying	145
	ISABELLE DUMONT AND JOCELYN MACLURE
9	The impossibility of contesting in the name of religion? A comparative perspective on assistance in dying in Quebec (Canada) and the canton of Vaud (Switzerland)	157
	SAMUEL BLOUIN
10	The politicisation of French Catholics on intimate issues through the promotion of lay expertise: A case study based on the Emmanuel Community’s magazine Il est vivant! (1975–2018)	175
	SAMUEL DOLBEAU
	Index	193