

Contents

Foreword	xi
Preface	xv
Acknowledgements	xxv
A Note on Dates and Names of People and Places	xxix
Introduction	1

PART I COLLECTIVE TRAUMA: AN INTRODUCTION

1. Introduction to Trauma, a Capacious Social Concept	15
2. Impaired Meaning Making, Trauma's Meta-Effect	25
3. Some Distinctive Aspects of Collective Trauma	42

PART II A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE ARMENIAN-TURKISH RELATIONSHIP

4. The Tangled Roots of Homeland and Identity	55
5. The Riddle of Ottomanism	67
6. The Unlikely Alliance against the Sultan	85
7. The Final Path to Imperial Ruin	104
8. Five Men's Traumatization before they Acquired Power	121
9. The Armenian Genocide	138

PART III VIOLENT ENTITLEMENT CARRIED INTO ARMENIAN-AZERBAIJANI RELATIONS IN TRANSCAUCASIA

10. Enemies or Allies? Armenian–Azerbaijani Relations, 1850–1915	159
11. A Kaleidoscope of Armenian–Muslim Relations in the Intense Dynamics of Transcaucasia and Baku in 1917	175

12. Bolshevik Decrees and Anarchy in the Borderlands, Late 1917–Early 1918	189
13. How World War I Ended in Transcaucasia: Betrayal, New Republics, Race Murder	199
14. Baku, 1917–1918: More Conflict, its Seeds Planted for Transmission	216
15. World War I's End in Eastern Transcaucasia: War Fever Sparks the Turan Quest and Race Murder	229

PART IV
ANALYSING AND PROCESSING COLLECTIVE TRAUMA:
IS A DIFFERENT FUTURE POSSIBLE?

16. How People Make Meaning in General, and Illustrated by an Armenian and a Turk	245
17. Meaning Making with Trauma and Relative Powerlessness in the Armenian People as a Whole	258
18. Meaning Making with Trauma and Relative Power among Turks	272
Conclusion: Processing Collective Trauma Collectively: Will We?	288
Bibliography	310
Index	325