Contents

List of Figures vi

Notes on Contributors viii

1 Introduction 1

2 Transnational Organized Crime 13

3 Intelligence Studies 23

4 International Case Study 1: Criminal Intelligence Service Canada (CISC) 38

5 International Case Study 2: The Serious and Organised Crime Agency (SOCA) 57

6 Australian Case Study 1: The Australian Crime Commission (ACC) 79

7 Australian Case Study 2: Australian Federal Police (AFP) 102

8 Conceptual Frameworks for the Integration of Strategic Intelligence 126

9 Conclusion 145

References 151

Index 168

DOI: 10.1057/9781137443885.0001

List of Figures

2.1	Criminal network	17
4.1	CISC Central Bureau Organizational Structure	41
4.2	CISC Central Bureau's goals, deliverables and clients	43
4.3	Canadian Criminal Intelligence Model	46
4.4	Aggregated analysis – CISC	48
4.5	Time and reporting focus of CISC strategic intelligence products	51
5.1	SOCA's strategic imperative framework	60
5.2	SOCA's strategic imperative framework analysis	60
5.3	SOCA's outputs framework	62
5.4	Analysis of the association between SOCA's outputs and strategic imperatives framework	62
5.5	UK National Intelligence Model (UK NIM)	67
5.6	Strategic and tactical intelligence in the UK NIM	69
5.7	Conceptual framework for the interaction of intelligence and strategy development	71
6.1	ACC outcomes and outputs framework	85
6.2	ACC structure	87
6.3	Division of the strategic intelligence cycle within the ACC organization structure	87
6.4	ACC's intelligence cycle	91
6.5	ACC product focus	93
6.6	ACC crime analysis/strategic intelligence formulas	93
6.7	ACC intelligence product timeline	96
6.8	ACC intelligence products	97
7.1	AFP organization chart	109
7.2	AFP outcomes and outputs framework	111

DOI: 10.1057/9781137443885.0002

7.3 AFP intelligence cycle 115
7.4 AFP conceptualization of intelligence focus 117
7.5 AFP Intelligence Portfolio structure including areas focused on TOC 120
7.6 AFP Intelligence Portfolio structure that produces strategic intelligence 121
7.7 Timeline analysis of AFP intelligence reporting 123
8.1 Current strategic intelligence–policy framework 135
8.2 Australian Policy Cycle 137
8.3 The intelligence cycle 138
8.4 Proposed theoretical framework for strategic intelligence in law enforcement 139
8.5 Conceptual framework for strategic intelligence–policy interface at the law enforcement organizational level 141

DOI: 10.1057/9781137443885.0002