

Contents

1	The Problem of Punishment.....	1
1.1	The Paradox of Retribution.....	7
1.2	The Incoherence of Public Policy: A Muddle of Theories	9
1.3	The Rise of Abolitionism.....	13
1.4	The Strategy of This Book	15
1.5	The Importance of the Debate.....	16
2	Punishment as Crime Prevention	19
2.1	Does Punishment Prevent Crime?.....	22
2.2	Crime Prevention and the Utilitarian Moral Theory	24
2.3	The Critique of Consequentialism	25
2.4	Is It Ever Useful to Punish the Innocent?	29
2.5	Punishing the Guilty	32
2.6	What’s Left of the Crime Prevention Theory?.....	33
2.7	The Intend/Foresee Distinction	35
2.8	The Crime-Prevention Theory and Double Effect	38
2.9	The DDE and Punishing the Innocent	41
2.10	Deterrence and Retribution	42
3	Can Retributive Punishment Be Justified?.....	47
3.1	Crypto-Utilitarian Theories of Retribution	48
3.1.1	The Deterrence-Based Theory of Retribution.....	49
3.1.2	Retribution and Satisfaction of Victims	50
3.2	Retribution as a Natural Instinct or Emotion	51
3.3	Retribution as a Requirement of Reason.....	54
3.3.1	Respect for the Offender	56
3.3.2	Right to Be Punished	57
3.3.3	Consent to Be Punished	59
3.3.4	Unfair Advantage.....	60
3.4	Retribution as Conceptual Requirement	62

3.5	The Expressive Theory of Retribution.....	64
3.5.1	Can the Expressive Theory Justify Punishment?.....	65
3.5.2	Why Hard Treatment?.....	66
3.6	Retribution as a Moral Primitive.....	67
4	The Mixed Theory of Punishment.....	73
4.1	The Idea of “Separate Questions”.....	75
4.2	The Conceptual Version of the Mixed Theory.....	76
4.3	Legal Formalism.....	78
4.4	The Separation of Powers Principle.....	80
4.5	The Rule-Utilitarian Theory.....	81
4.6	H.L.A. Hart’s Two-Level Theory.....	82
4.7	The “Practice Conception” Argument.....	87
4.8	Utilitarianism, Retribution, and the Two Levels.....	89
4.9	Conclusion.....	92
5	Retribution and Revenge.....	93
5.1	Six Supposed Distinctions Between Revenge and Retribution.....	95
5.2	Revenge Is Personal.....	95
5.3	Revenge Is Inherently Excessive.....	97
5.4	Revenge Is for Insults and Sights, Not Moral Wrongs.....	99
5.5	Revenge Is Based on Sadistic Pleasure.....	101
5.6	Revenge Is Based on the Principle of Collective Responsibility.....	102
5.7	Revenge Is Based upon Strict Liability.....	105
5.8	Conclusion: Revenge Versus Retribution.....	106
5.9	Is Revenge Morally Permissible?.....	109
5.10	Revenge, Retribution, and Honor.....	110
6	What Is the Purpose of Retribution?.....	113
6.1	The Intending Harm Requirement.....	115
6.2	Assessing the “Intending Harm Requirement”.....	117
6.3	The Purpose of Revenge.....	120
6.4	Punishment and Honor.....	123
6.5	Honor and Punishment.....	125
6.6	Intending Harm Versus Defending Honor.....	128
6.7	From Private Revenge to Societal Punishment.....	130
6.8	Retribution and Intentional Harm.....	137
6.9	Honor and Impartiality.....	143
6.10	The Expressive Theory Revisited.....	144
7	Making Sense of Honor.....	147
7.1	The Descriptive Claim and the Evolutionary Alternative.....	149
7.2	The Value of Honor.....	152
7.3	Is Honor Essentially External?.....	155

- 7.4 The External Honor Thesis 156
- 7.5 Five Interpretations of the External Honor Thesis 160
- 7.6 Is Honor External? 164
- 8 Is Punishment Justified?..... 167
 - 8.1 Intentional Versus Foreseen Harm 170
 - 8.2 Punishment and Proportionality..... 171
 - 8.3 Necessity and the Problem of Forgiveness 173
 - 8.4 Is Restitution a “New Paradigm”? 178
 - 8.5 The Role of the Victim..... 183
 - 8.6 Victimless Crimes 185
 - 8.7 Conclusion: Punishment as Defense of Honor 187
 - 8.8 Is Punishment Justified?..... 190
- Bibliography 193
- Index..... 201