

CONTENTS

Foreword by Professor Marco Sassòli	ix
Acknowledgements	xvii
Table of cases	xix
Table of acronyms	xxxiii
Introduction	1
1 The limits on the right to resort to PMSCs	10
A The limits imposed by international law on the use of armed force – jus ad bellum	10
1 Does the UN Charter prohibit delegation to private companies of states' right to use armed force in self-defence?	10
2 PMSCs in peace support operations	17
3 Humanitarian organizations and the use of PMSCs	53
4 The prohibition of privateering and the use of private military and security companies	56
5 The prohibition of mercenarism	66
6 Conclusion	80
B The limits imposed by the laws of war – jus in bello	80
1 Treaty-based limitations on the use of PMSCs	82
2 Implied limitations	91
3 Conclusion	113
C The limits imposed by IHRL	113
1 The legality of delegating law enforcement under IHRL	113
D Good faith	126
1 The principle of good faith in international law	127
2 Good faith and PMSCs	130
E Conclusion	133
2 The international responsibility of states and its relevance for PMSCs	134
A Attribution of acts of PMSCs under Article 4 ASR	136
1 A PMSC as a de jure state organ	136
2 The scope of state responsibility under Articles 4 and 7 ASR	158

B	The attribution to states of acts of PMSCs under Article 5 ASR	165
1	A PMSC as an entity empowered by internal law	166
2	The elements of governmental authority	172
C	The attribution of the conduct of PMSCs to states under Article 8 ASR	204
1	Instructions	205
2	Direction and control	209
3	'The criterion of 'instigation'	221
D	Concluding remarks on the attribution of the activities of PMSCs to states	223
E	The responsibility of states for activities of PMSCs due to a lack of due diligence	225
1	Preliminary considerations on due diligence	226
2	Sources of due diligence relevant for the activities of private military and security companies	228
3	Obligations arising from the requirement to exercise due diligence	251
4	Implications for contracting states of the duty to ensure respect for IHL and IHRL regarding PMSCs	262
5	Implications for territorial states to ensure respect of IHL and human rights	280
6	Implications for home states to ensure that human rights and humanitarian law are respected	282
F	Conclusion	286
3	The legal means through which PMSCs are bound by IHL	288
A	PMSCs as non-state actors	289
1	PMSCs (as companies) as a subject of international law	289
2	Beyond international personality: alternative avenues for binding PMSCs	305
B	PMSCs as the sum of their individual employees	350
1	IHL: an inter-state law with individuals as addressees	351
2	The direct applicability of IHL to individuals	366
4	The legal rules applicable to PMSCs and their personnel	383
A	Establishing the status of PMSC personnel under IHL	385
1	PMSCs and combatant or fighter status	386
2	PMSCs and other statuses under IHL	418
B	The impact of civilian status on the rights and duties of PMSCs: direct participation in hostilities	431
1	Consequences for PMSCs of directly participating in hostilities	432

2	Concept, elements and time frame of direct participation in hostilities: what counts are specific acts	436
C	The use of force by PMSC personnel in self-defence	455
1	The right to life does not entail an unqualified right to self-defence	457
2	Elements of self-defence from domestic criminal law, interpreted in the light of IHL	461
3	Scenarios on self-defence for a private armed guard of an occupation administration compound	484
D	The rules applicable to PMSCs tasked with law enforcement in armed conflicts	489
1	Identifying the applicable rules	489
2	Law enforcement rules under IHL	492
3	Law enforcement and human rights law	495
4	Law enforcement situations in armed conflict and occupation	499
E	Fleshing out the content of certain IHL obligations for civilians	524
1	Meeting the standards and conditions of internment and detention for POWs and civilians	524
2	Fundamental rights and freedoms	527
3	Recruitment	529
4	Providing aid	530
F.	Conclusion	537
5	The implementation of responsibility arising from violations of international law by PMSCs	539
A	Implementation of state responsibility	539
1	Implementation of state responsibility before international tribunals by other states	540
2	The review of implementation through treaty-body procedures	544
3	The legal actions of individuals against states	546
B	The means by which states can regulate the conduct and define the legal responsibility of PMSCs	570
1	International regulation	571
2	National regulation	575
C	Establishing international criminal responsibility	582
1	Corporate criminal responsibility	583
2	Individual criminal responsibility	597
3	Prosecuting individuals in national legal systems	623
4	Conclusion	626
D	Establishing civil responsibility	627
1	Establishing civil responsibility of PMSCs and their personnel	631

2	Problems of jurisdiction	648
3	Conclusion	661
E	Implementing PMSC responsibility through self-regulation	662
	General Conclusion	672
	Selected Bibliography	678
	Index	708