

Contents

Foreword	ix
Preface	xi
Table of Cases	xiii
1 International investment and law	1
I. A brief history of international investment	1
II. Impacts of national laws on investment	6
III. International legal regimes	15
IV. Features of contemporary international investment law	19
A. Cross-application of treaty and national law	19
B. Precedential effect of previous decisions	22
C. Emphasis on preambles	23
D. Formation of case law	28
2 The control system pertinent to direct foreign investment	32
I. The insurance system for foreign investment	32
A. The national insurance system	33
B. The multilateral insurance system	37
II. The bilateral protection system	49
III. The ICSID dispute settlement system	61
A. ICSID arbitration mechanisms	62
B. Annulment procedure under the ICSID mechanism	64
3 Determination of foreign investors	88
I. Qualified investors as a jurisdictional issue	89
II. Piercing the corporate veil of foreign investors	99
III. Jus standi : indirect investors and minority shareholders	112
IV. Denial of benefits	126
V. China's practice relating to investors	135
VI. Conclusions	139

4	Determination of foreign investments	142
I.	Searching for a definition of investment	144
II.	The double-barreled test and contribution to economic development for qualified investment in ICSID arbitration	164
III.	Additional criteria for qualified investments	176
	A. Investments made in compliance with law and in good faith (“ bona fide ”)	176
	B. Investments made “in the territory” of the host state	186
IV.	Commercial arbitration awards and investments	190
V.	China’s treaty practice on determination of foreign investment	202
VI.	Conclusions	209
5	Consent as a condition of jurisdiction	212
I.	Determination of consent	213
II.	Effective time of consent	231
III.	The fork in the road	235
IV.	Exhaustion of local remedies	251
V.	China’s treaty practice	258
6	The absolute standards of treatment	263
I.	Fair and equitable treatment	264
	A. The concept of FET	264
	B. Contents of FET	278
II.	Full protection and security	308
III.	The umbrella clause	315
IV.	China’s practice on absolute standards of treatment	329
7	The relative standards of treatment	334
I.	The history of the MFN clause and the applicable interpretation principles	335
	A. The history of MFN treatment	335
	B. Principles of interpretation	339
II.	MFN jurisprudence relating to investment	344
	A. Cases supporting extension of the MFN clause to dispute resolution procedures	345
	B. Cases opposing extension of the MFN clause to dispute resolution procedures	353
III.	National treatment in investment	360
	A. Status of NT in investment treaties	360
	B. Competition as a necessary condition for like circumstances	363
	C. Liberal interpretation of like circumstances	367
	D. The principle of judicial/arbitral economy	369
	E. Determination of less favourable treatment	372
IV.	China’s practice regarding MFN and national treatment	376
V.	Synthesis and conclusions	380

8 Expropriation	388
I. Expropriation and pertinent conditions	390
II. Indirect expropriation	404
III. Defense of indirect expropriation and conditions	419
IV. The Chinese practice	430
Annexes	437
9 Compensation for violation of obligations	449
I. The basic issues regarding compensation for expropriation	449
II. Normative provisions of international instruments	452
III. International judicial and arbitral practice	458
IV. The power of tribunals in cases of non-expropriatory breaches	467
V. Fair market value as the standard of compensation for non-expropriatory breaches	472
VI. Actual losses suffered and benefits denied as benchmark	482
VII. Compensation for moral damages	494
VIII. Conclusions and alternatives	498
A. FMV as the standard for expropriatory measures	498
B. Varied standards adopted for non-expropriatory breaches	499
C. Alternatives for improvement	501
10 State responsibility and enforcement of obligations	508
I. Attribution of state responsibility	510
II. Efforts to codify the principle of sovereign immunity	521
III. Evolution of national laws regarding sovereign immunity	530
A. Absolute sovereign immunity	530
B. Restricted sovereign immunity	534
C. Laws on sovereign immunity	536
IV. National practices relating to execution of investment awards	543
A. The US practice	546
B. The UK practice	550
C. The French practice	552
V. The Chinese perspective	555
11 Conclusions and alternatives	560
Index	575