

---

Contents

|   |           |
|---|-----------|
| Author.....   | ix        |
| Introduction .....  | xi        |
| Chapter 1 Convenience theory of white-collar crime .....       | 1  |
| Convenience benefits and costs.....                                   | 1         |
| Theorizing and theory development .....                               | 2         |
| Social economic conflict in society .....                             | 6         |
| Marxist criminology .....   | 7         |
| Laws and law enforcement.....   | 8         |
| Reasons for punishing their own .....                                 | 11        |
| Theoretical model .....   | 14        |
| Conflict theory approach .....  | 15        |
| References .....  | 16        |
| Chapter 2 Economical dimension in convenience theory .....     | 21 |
| Economical profit in crime.....                                       | 21        |
| Profit-driven crime and markets.....                                  | 23        |
| Rational choice by self-interest.....                                 | 26        |
| Transaction costs in criminal activities .....                        | 29        |
| References .....  | 32        |
| Chapter 3 Organizational dimension in convenience theory ..... | 35 |
| Organizational opportunity in crime .....                             | 35        |
| Opportunity-driven financial crime .....                              | 40        |
| Agency relationships in crime .....                                   | 44        |
| Institutional moral collapse.....                                     | 46        |
| Institutional theory .....  | 46        |
| Dysfunctional network theory.....                                     | 49        |
| Social network theory.....  | 50        |
| Conspiracy theory.....  | 51        |
| Organized crime .....   | 52        |
| Socialization theory .....  | 52        |

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| Double-bind leadership.....   | 53         |
| Social disorganization.....   | 57         |
| Follower obedience in organizations.....                            | 60         |
| Organizational systems failure.....                                 | 61         |
| References.....   | 63         |
| Chapter 4 Behavioral dimension in convenience theory.....    | 69  |
| Deviant behavior in crime.....                                      | 69         |
| Labeling self-identity of criminals.....                            | 73         |
| Slippery slope decline.....   | 75         |
| Self-control and desire for control.....                            | 77         |
| Strain for success and status.....                                  | 78         |
| Criminal personality disorders.....                                 | 79         |
| Study in Germany.....   | 82         |
| Categories of personality disorder.....                             | 84         |
| Crime deterrence mechanisms.....                                    | 87         |
| Neutralization techniques.....                                      | 90         |
| Profiling risky individuals.....                                    | 95         |
| References.....   | 97         |
| Chapter 5 Integrated approach to convenience theory.....     | 101 |
| Integrating convenience dimensions.....                             | 101        |
| Research hypotheses for convenience.....                            | 106        |
| Theorizing white-collar crime and criminals.....                    | 112        |
| Limits to a general white-collar crime theory.....                  | 115        |
| Contributions from convenience theory.....                          | 120        |
| Comparison to Sutherland's theory.....                              | 124        |
| References.....   | 129        |
| Chapter 6 Empirical study of white-collar criminals.....     | 135 |
| Sample of criminals in Norway.....                                  | 135        |
| Economical dimension in crime.....                                  | 137        |
| Organizational dimension in crime.....                              | 141        |
| Behavioral dimension in crime.....                                  | 145        |
| The case of Kerik neutralization.....                               | 149        |
| References.....   | 153        |
| Chapter 7 Statements for testing convenience hypotheses..... | 157 |
| Desire in the economical dimension.....                             | 157        |
| Opportunity in the organizational dimension.....                    | 159        |
| Willingness in the behavioral dimension.....                        | 160        |
| Research model for convenience theory.....                          | 160        |
| The case of fraudulent attorneys.....                               | 161        |

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| The case of two sides in corruption.....                          | 163        |
| The case of Yara corruption in Libya .....                        | 167        |
| References .....  | 172        |
| Chapter 8 Corporate social responsibility.....             | 173 |
| When employers become crime victims.....                          | 173        |
| When others become crime victims.....                             | 175        |
| Gjensidige Insurance and Hells Angels .....                       | 178        |
| Gjensidige Insurance Company .....                                | 179        |
| Hells Angels MC Norway .....                                      | 181        |
| Hells Angels club house .....                                     | 182        |
| Evaluation of CSR.....  | 183        |
| Asset recovery in 2015 .....                                      | 185        |
| Corruption case at Siemens .....                                  | 187        |
| What is corporate responsibility? .....                           | 188        |
| Failure in corporate responsibility .....                         | 189        |
| Stages of growth in corporate responsibility .....                | 190        |
| Convenience and corporate responsibility.....                     | 193        |
| References .....  | 194        |
| Chapter 9 Internal white-collar crime investigations ..... | 197 |
| Police versus internal investigations.....                        | 198        |
| Reasons for private investigations.....                           | 200        |
| Investigative knowledge needs .....                               | 202        |
| Crime disclosure by whistleblowers .....                          | 204        |
| Privatization of law enforcement.....                             | 209        |
| Disclosure of investigation reports .....                         | 210        |
| Competence of private investigators.....                          | 211        |
| Limits by investigation mandate .....                             | 212        |
| Empirical sample of investigation reports .....                   | 213        |
| References .....  | 226        |
| Chapter 10 The case of the Betanien investigation.....     | 229 |
| BDO investigation at Betanien .....                               | 230        |
| BDO investigation report.....                                     | 231        |
| CEO priest prosecution in court .....                             | 234        |
| CEO priest conviction in court.....                               | 236        |
| Religious white-collar criminals.....                             | 238        |
| Comments from the chairman of the board .....                     | 241        |
| References .....  | 242        |
| Conclusion.....   | 245        |
| Index .....   | 249        |